The President's Commission on Executive Exchange
THE WHITE HOUSE

February 17, 1989

Dear Judge Webster:

The Central Intelligence Agency is a leader in the task of improving communication between the public and private sectors and the President's Commission on Executive Exchange is an important ingredient in the national program to achieve this goal. Last year the Central Intelligence Agency was a key participant in the program acting as a host for [redacted]

[redacted] and sponsoring [redacted] in his assignment to the [redacted]. These participants are reporting that their assignments are exceptionally rewarding, challenging, and the experience is now enabling them to make new and important contributions in their return assignments.

The unique program available through the President's Commission on Executive Exchange offers the opportunity for the Central Intelligence Agency to pursue a two fold strategy for improving government/business communications. Not only can the Central Intelligence Agency benefit from the skills and abilities of talented representatives from the business community, but it is also a tool that will be used to develop an elite corps of outstanding federal government managers with hands on experience in the business sector.

I am inviting you to again nominate one or two exceptional federal executives for participation in the 1989-1990 President's Commission on Executive Exchange. Your nominees will be assigned for one year in the corporate world. Experience has taught us that placement of federal executives with participating corporations is most successful if nominations are limited to career executives who meet the following criteria:

Nominees must be members of the Senior Executive Service (SES) or an equivalent system, participant in a SES candidate development program, or exceptional GS/GM-15 managers who will be candidates for the SES positions in the near future.

Nominees should have skills and experience that are transferable to the private sector. The current skills in demand in the private sector include financial analysis, international relations, engineering, computer science and long range strategic planning.

Nominees are expected to have had no prior private sector work experience.

Nominees must be willing to relocate outside of Washington for an assignment that will begin in October, 1989.

Please forward your nominations to this office no later than April 7, 1989. While I will be leaving shortly, my successor and the staff of the Presidents Commission on Executive Exchange is enthusiastically looking forward to placing one or two of your key executives in private sector positions. All nominations and inquiries should be referred to the Senior Associate Director, a program alumnus who can provide any information your staff may require. Additionally, I hope the Commission will be able to count on you to consider exceptional representatives from the business community which we will refer for placement at the Central Intelligence Agency.
